Claims 1-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. In claim 1 there is no antecedent basis for "edge-standing articles". Moreover, the recitation "complementary toothed counterpart" has no clear counterpart in that the anti-recall device recited previously does not state that it includes toothed components.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-13 (as best understood) are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Cubberley 1772438 in view of Cubberley 1750575. As best understood Cubberly '438 teaches a back rest 1, rails 10a and 10b and cooperating teeth 8. Cubberly also teaches pull strip B. Cubberley '575 teaches cooperating sections best seen in Figure 3. To provide '438 with the cooperating teeth as taught by '575 would have been obvious for one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure and cited on the attached Notice of References Cited.
